This demonstration will focus on products that are a result of 32 years of experience in supporting students who struggle as Don Johnston did until a great teacher helped him develop strategies to succeed.

In a mere 32 years (ok, it took a while), we're celebrating a milestone of reaching 32,000 schools with our assistive technology tools. The real impact is on the students who have learned to read and write using our tools—that impact is immeasurable

School districts are looking for ways to manage Accessible Instructional Materials and alternate format books for students who require AIM. In this session, participants will learn about Bookstream, a cloud computing service that will enable schools to manage students and reading content that can be accessed from a variety of devices within a single web browser. Learn about this and other solutions offered by Don Johnston, Inc. This informative session is appropriate for Curriculum, IT, Textbook, Special Education staff, and parents of students who require AIM. Registration is required.
